

On March 14 – 15, 2016 the international seminar «One Ecosystem, Multiple Climates: floodplain meadows as a model system for investigating climatic resilience» was held on the basis of the Open University in Great Britain (Milton Keynes City). The leading scientific researchers from Hungary, Spain, Norway, the Netherlands, Romania, Russia, the Czech Republic, Germany, Estonia, Ireland, France, Poland, England and Belgium participated in it. Head of the Department of Botany and Plants` Physiology Daineko N.M. and the associate professor of the same Department Timofeev S.F. also participated in the seminar activities.